

Battered Broken Healed A Mother Separated From Her Daughter Only A Painful Truth Can Bring Them Back Together

This book is about a little girl who bloomed into a young woman that was stuck in her childhood trauma. She faces the same challenging spirit with different people while developing a relationship with God. She was considered to be the black sheep of the family because of her relationship with God. She grew up with trust issues because no one in her family believed her, and from the time she was eight years old, she had to walk in her shoes alone and fight with the only source she knew—GOD. Even though she wasn't alone, she felt soooo alone as she had no one who understood her. But one thing she knew was, she could call on God and he was always there.

From the outside, Hilary Taylor has it all—beauty, money, a caring family, good friends—but inside she's struggling, full of fears. Events from the past forever changed her, and though years of therapy have helped, she still has a long way to go.... No matter how much progress she's made, Hil isn't sure she'll ever be able to trust men again. Especially one who sees her as nothing more than a pretty face. But Hil knows it's time to face her fears, and the best way to do that is to start small. To Guilherme Fernandes life is about three things: polo, parties and pretty girls—only one of which he takes seriously. Gui is too focused on his polo career to waste time on relationships, however he can't help but be intrigued by the beautiful yet troubled Hil. So when she decides she'd like to learn more about horses, Gui is happy to find himself in the right place at the right time. But what was supposed to be a one time thing, soon turns into a weekly date. As Gui helps her discover a new found love for horses, Hil's guard begins to crumble. The more support Gui offers, the more she wants to accept...and the more the lines of friendship blur. Despite knowing better, Hil can't help it as Gui slowly breaks through the walls she's built. Now she has to decide if she'll stop him there, or if she'll finally let her fear go and allow Gui to reach for her heart. Mr. Ingram's odyssey of rebellion and redemption led to his discovery of life saving and life affirming principals. Esther Megill had an extraordinary life experience in Sierra Leone as a medical technologist—extraordinary in the work she did, in the work she helped others to do, and in the legacy of good will she left behind at the time of her “retirement.” Her book, Sierra Leone Remembered, reads like an adventure novel. Written in an easy conversational style, it is a true story whose “characters” draw you into their world. There are surprises at every turn and some will make you laugh along with Esther and her friends. Some will make you weep as she wept for the sick, displaced and those who lost their lives. This author was there and she takes you with her. Her stories have an unmistakable ring of essential truth. Other authors may have given us history lessons, descriptive passages, testimonials of faith, or glimpses into the culture and everyday lives of people. Esther Megill gives all that and more. Her feast of photographs tell thousands more stories at a glance. Pull up a chair, open Sierra Leone Remembered, and you will see and hear Esther tell her story in her own voice. Her story inspires one to look for the best in the human spirit despite circumstances. One sees that dedication to serve others with compassion, courage and faith, and medicine blessed with God's love, can make a difference. —Sylvia Smyth

This powerful book was inspired from pain, passion, persistence, and the pursuit for peace. Everyday we tell ourselves stories. Whether we realize it or not, those stories - those inner dialogues we have with ourselves - shape our perceptions of who we are, what we have been through, and how we play out the rest of our story. These stories form our beliefs which in turn, forms our emotions and habits. How we choose to see the story that is playing out before us can determine how we will react to life when it tries to knock us down. Furthermore, those same stories can be the difference in how we get back up and how quickly we bounce back. True authentic change starts by looking at these stories we tell ourselves. This is exactly what Christina Bacon learned. She realized that the stories she was telling herself about past experiences were based on false truths; and those stories were contributing to her brokenness. She was in the broken unknown. Seeking the help of spiritual teachers and mentors as well as doing her own internal work, she set out on a path towards transformational healing. In this book, Christina shares her journey and invites you to join her in learning how to "re-story" (restore) your life. It's time to find the true story and bring re-story-action (restoration) to your brokenness. It's time to rediscover the person you truly are and walk in true healing and wholeness.

•A memoir looking at the ups and downs of a doctor's life. •A 'warts and all' examination of the NHS through the last 50 years. •The book also looks at the looming crisis in the NHS when the number of doctors will dramatically fall. Alistair Fraser-Moodie believes he was probably born into medicine. His mother was a general practitioner working from home, his father was a surgeon & also a dentist. Following his 'destiny' he started training as a doctor. He recalls 5 years at medical school learning very little about medicine, but a lot about girls, alcohol and sport. Now after 54 years as a doctor, and having recently retired, Alistair has written about his personal journey through the highs and lows of the medical profession. Alistair had many different jobs within the NHS and for a while was a plastic surgeon. But in 1978 he was appointed a single-handed emergency casualty consultant in Derby, a position that is now shared between 16 people. He remained there until 2007. During this time he became an expert in 'Road Traffic Accidents' and made many court appearances as an Expert Witness. He writes about many of medical misadventures, dilemmas and curious cases that occurred while in the A&E. Alistair also lays bare the medical problems attributable to, and suffered by, the doctors themselves. He looks at the incredible stress that doctors have to suffer. And many of the problems of the health system which have been made worse by government policies. How sick is the NHS? Well read this uncensored account of a lifetime in the NHS which is both true and for adults only. If you read this book cover to cover then you will see why the NHS is in the mess it is in. Only then, he would maintain, can drastic action be taken.

This is a story of how I survived sexual abuse, molestation, attempted murder on my life many times, rape, drug abuse, prostitution and how God brought me out of them all without a scratch. If God can bring me out, He can bring you out of whatever it is you are going through. Nothing is impossible for God. I was abused, neglected, raped, drugged, and so many more heinous, monstrous and dreadful acts were committed against me by my mother, my lover, the one who was supposed to love and care for me was the one who betrayed, deceived and failed to protect me. She meant it for harm, but God meant it for good. 2 Corinthians 4:8-18 (KJV) says "We are troubled on every side, not distressed; we are perplexed, not in despair; persecuted, not forsaken; cast down, not destroyed; always bearing about in the body the dying Jesus, that the life of Jesus might be made manifest in us. For we are always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, the life of Jesus might be manifest in our flesh. So then death worketh in us, but life in you. We, having the same spirit of faith, knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you. For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might redound to the glory of God. For we faint not; but our outward man perish the inward man is renewed. For our light affliction, which is for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: the things which are seen are temporal; the things which are not seen are eternal."

The maltreatment of children is an issue that has always been with us and civilized societies provide a range of services both social and medical to care for the children and families afflicted. In recent years, greater attention has been drawn to the medical aspects by competent authorities in the fields of forensic medicine, forensic psychiatry, epidemiological psychiatry, child psychiatry and family psychiatry; as well as the social aspects by those child welfare and child care agencies who have the difficult and distasteful task of removing children, with the help of the courts, from parents who can abuse them and are not able to care for them adequately. A multitude of social agencies, whose range of activities involve both the care and, where possible, the social betterment of afflicted families are now involved. Not least in importance is an increase in our global knowledge to help in the prevention or better treatment of these problems. This means more information on familial and genetic factors in human central nervous system development in its broadest sense. This would include how the central nervous system originates, mediates and controls the build up, speed of development and impulsive release, mastery and direction of aggressive drives and impulses. Very little is so far known about these factors.
